

I deserve massive success

I deserve massive success.

I deserve to have success in my life. I have the qualities and character traits of someone worthy of success.

I am a loyal person. I stand by those that are loyal to me. I am reliable, trustworthy, and committed to the people in my life. Even strangers can trust me to treat them kindly and respectfully.

Hard work is practically my middle name. I am willing to out-work my competitors. I enjoy getting my hands dirty and putting in a long day of effort.

Whether the work I need to do is mental or physical, I am up to the challenge.

I learn from failure. I discover important lessons and grow stronger from each mistake. Each failure I endure takes me closer to the success I deserve.

I know that the more I am willing to struggle, the sooner I can achieve success.

I am persistent. Persistence is my strongest trait. I can outlast any challenge. Once I set my mind on achieving an objective, I know success is a certainty. I am stubborn and optimistic. Those two traits are my ace in the hole.

I love what I do. I enjoy learning more about my craft and perfecting my skills. I am in the position to be successful. I deserve massive success.

Today, I am working harder and more intelligently than ever. I do what needs to be done. Success is mine.

Self-Reflection Questions:

1. What actions do I take each day to deserve success?
2. Am I fully prepared to be successful?
3. What can I do to be even more deserving of success?