

I draw from the well of knowledge

I draw from the well of knowledge.

I use the well of knowledge to increase my wisdom. I grow as an intellectual with each drink I have from this well. I strengthen my skills and increase my abilities. I use this newfound knowledge at work and home.

I know knowledge is powerful and makes me stronger.

I understand that knowledge is the key to my growth as a person. I empower myself with a variety of learning habits.

I see the real data amid the noise. I distinguish the information I need in the chaos of the world.

I focus on the ideas that move me forward instead of hold me back. I stay open to transformation through knowledge.

I absorb new information and interpret it. I use it to make my life better.

I drink from the well of knowledge and encourage others to follow me. I share what I learn with them. I listen to their ideas too.

I process the information I find.

I aggregate all the data around me into a cohesive whole. I know the steps I need to take at home and at work to use this data. I ensure the information becomes part of my daily habits.

Today, I use knowledge to evolve as an individual. I attain new heights with new skills.

Self-Reflection Questions:

1. How can I increase my knowledge with my busy lifestyle?
2. Which skills and ideas should I focus on first to grow my knowledge base?
3. How can I attain wisdom faster?
