

It is my time to blossom

It is my time to blossom.

This is my time to bloom. It is my turn to be in the spotlight and to be noticed. I embrace growth and change. I am ready to be the center of attention. I am happy to be the focus.

My spirit and energy are blossoming.

My inner critic is silent as I blossom. I refuse to fade into the background or be bothered by others that overlook me.

I am ready to take control of every aspect of my life. This is my time to be in charge and make decisions. It is my turn to be the action-taker and driver.

I blossom at the right moment and time.

My path and journey are clear in front of me. I shape my existence. I am confident and strong.

I am motivated to alter my life for the better. I am happy to grow and blossom in this moment. I eliminate all negative thoughts that prevent the petals of my new life from forming.

I motivate others to blossom too. Together, we can reach new heights and share our gifts with the world.

I welcome this stage in my journey.

Today, I enjoy the spotlight and blossom. I expand my horizons and try new things. I grow, learn, and change.

Self-Reflection Questions:

1. What can I do to help those around me accept that I am blossoming?
2. How can I learn patience and allow the blossoming process to proceed at its own pace?
3. What can I do to teach others about embracing their own path and journey to change?