

Today is filled with opportunity

Today is filled with opportunity.

I have more opportunities today than ever before. The possibilities for my life are endless.

If I want to enhance my life, the opportunity to do so already exists. I can alter my life at will. I am certain that anything is possible for me.

The trick is to recognize the possibilities before me. Opportunity is often disguised as a challenge or hard work. I can notice these opportunities easily. I am willing to work hard to be successful.

I seize the opportunities before me and make the most of them.

I am an opportunist. I take advantage of the possibilities each day. While I have goals, I keep my eyes open for other options, too.

When an opportunity is too good to pass up, I jump at it. I avoid hesitation and act boldly. I make the most of each day.

There are opportunities available for me to enhance my finances, career, relationships, and overall happiness. I am grateful for these choices. My gratitude ensures that I have even more options in the future. I receive more of whatever I appreciate.

Today, I search my environment for opportunities to enhance my life. I know the possibilities are all around me. I can see them and act upon them. Today is filled with opportunity.

Self-Reflection Questions:

1. What opportunities do I have available to me right now?
2. Why aren't I acting on those opportunities?
3. If I acted on the best opportunities available to me, how would my life change?